24th December 2026

Christmas is a time for all the family and all generations will love a rustic picnic in the forest around a bonfire. As the sun starts to set, everyone staying at Reschio – in the hotel or the houses – will gather at the Teatro Equestre. Each with their candle, will wind down the twisty road to the castle, behind the procession band. At the steep drive up to the castle's wooden door, a hush will descend, just the crunch of footsteps on gravel with light from the candles and stars. But, at the threshold the haunting sound of a zampogna (15th century Italian bagpipe) pierces the mist-muffled silence and within the rampart walls the castle courtyard is filled with warmth - fires; candles in sconces and torchères; the Palm Court alight with an amber glow – and a choir for the sung Christmas mass in the intimate family chapel. It is simply enchanting as the voices waft through the night.

After mass, warming drinks are served in the courtyard.
